

Der Froschkönig

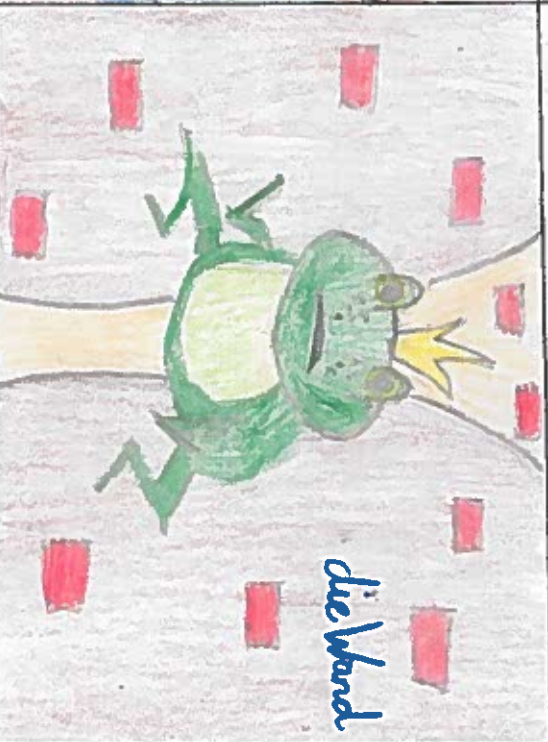

Once there was a princess who lost her golden ball in a well.

The princess did not want to keep her promise of the reward, but the king told her she must.

A frog offered to help, but in return wanted to be the princess' friend.

As the frog crept into her bed the princess was disgusted and threw him against the wall.

As a reward he wanted to eat from her golden plate and sleep in her bed.

Suddenly the frog turned into a prince, they got married and lived happily ever after.
